Introduction

The conference. The overall aim of this one-day conference is to disseminate this rich, publicly-available data, to foster academic research, publications and collaborations. All conference participants use the SiE or the Solid datasets for their papers and discussions.

The project. The EUI-YouGov ‘Solidarity in Europe’ project started in 2018 and aims to examine the evolution of European, transnational solidarity. Since 2018, the project is supported by a yearly survey, conceptualised by the EUI and administered by YouGov, which serves as input for scientific journal articles, policy briefs and media contributions.

The dataset. The dataset contains answers to questions covering a wide variety of topics: the concept of solidarity among EU states and beyond; response to different crises through various instruments, including the recent Covid-19 outbreak; welfare and unemployment; taxes and basic income; satisfaction and trust towards governments, the EU and international actors; strength of national and European identities; value of democracy; importance and salience of various issues and threats; intention in a EU-membership referendum and other EU-related indicators; world politics; left-right self-placement; gender, religion and age group; vote record in past national elections.
